

Body Cams?

There's a move afoot by some parents to place cameras in public school classrooms to monitor what is being taught to their children. Their concerns are clearly a response to the widespread indoctrination of public school students with treasonous curricula such as "Critical Race Theory" and other malignancies.

IF PARENTS REALLY WANT TO REFORM AND IMPROVE PUBLIC EDUCATION -- AND PURGE IT OF COMMUNIST PROPAGANDA -- THE SIMPLEST AND MOST EFFECTIVE WAY IS TO COMPEL THEIR STATE LEGISLATURES TO ENACT "TUITION TAX-CREDITS."

Tuition tax credits would permit every taxpayer with school-age children to withhold the amount of their Real Property Taxes earmarked for their county's public school system. Those monies can then be used as tuition at private schools, parochial schools, trade schools or possibly retained by home-schoolers. The public school systems in most counties would atrophy, and attendance would eventually consist only of those who are satisfied with the curricula in their county's public schools.

The current system requires parents wishing to send their kids to private, parochial, trade schools (or who home-school) to simultaneously fund the public school systems their kids don't attend. Or, alternatively, they are compelled to enroll their kids in public schools -- of which they don't approve -- because they can't afford to pay for both public and private schools at the same time.

Despite years of lip-service by the Republican National Committee promoting Tuition Tax Credits in their fundraising, such programs are as rare as unicorns and leprechauns. That's because of the ability of public school teachers' unions to exploit Republican cowardice by intimidating Republican candidates for office with threats to fund their political opposition. Of course, they do that anyway...

With widespread exposure of the predominance of Critical Race Theory (CRT,) state legislatures now have as justifiable and legitimate a reason to enact Tuition Tax Credits as there has ever been. There may never be a better opportunity to hold the feet of our elected representatives to the fire at all levels of government.

CRT has laid bare the obvious rot in public education, which is so wide and deep that public education can no longer be reformed. In one fell swoop, Tuition Tax Credits would diminish the malignant influences of the National Education Association and the traitorous charlatans at the Department of "Education." CRT would eventually be quarantined in a few BLUE enclaves where very little learning occurs, anyway.

Tuition Tax-Credits would empower every parent -- black, white, Asian or Latino -- with the sense to recognize that the public schools in many areas have become a place where tax revenues and meaningful educations go to die.

Parents advocating body cams may not have considered some of its drawbacks. For example, who is going to monitor every hour of instruction their kids receive each day of the school year?

Wouldn't it be easier to recoup property taxes going to our county schools, and use that money to send our kids to religious schools, private schools, trade schools or even home-school them, where CRT is NOT included in the curriculum?
