

Leaving Atlanta

I've argued for years that there's no hope of reforming our large, urban areas populated primarily by black criminals, both in and out of office. Most BLUE cities are run so corruptly and incompetently -- with endemic voter fraud as well -- they invariably elect "leaders" who are as corrupt and incompetent as themselves. These cities have gotten progressively worse since the 1960s and their decline is a one-way street.

Many times I've recommended that individuals do as I have, and leave large cities and move to RED areas, where taxes are lower and rarely embezzled by city officials. Crime is much lower as well, particularly violent crimes like murder. There aren't any black "flash-mobs" either, since perpetrators would be met with a hail of gunfire by the proprietors of small businesses. That's because defending yourself and your property is encouraged in RED areas, in stark contrast to BLUE cities that always have strict gun control laws.

The residents of Buckhead -- an affluent and predominately white community in North Atlanta -- are pursuing an alternative strategy: many residents intend to secede from Atlanta and become an independent city, with its own city government and police force. Their tax revenues would be used to administer the city of Buckhead, and no longer disappear down the black hole that is Atlanta city government.

One Buckhead resident who heads the Buckhead Coalition -- opposed to secession -- argues that the resulting loss of tax revenues would be disastrous for Atlanta. This coalition consists of the usual feckless and quisling community "leaders" who can ALWAYS be counted on to endorse anything that benefits black crooks at the expense of law-abiding citizens. In fact, the resulting loss of tax revenues to Atlanta is the very best argument FOR Buckhead's Secession.

Buckhead's residents have grown weary of their taxes being stolen by corrupt Atlanta officials and then used for a variety of purposes that rarely benefit the residents of Buckhead. Those favoring secession are also alarmed at repeated calls from a number of black Atlanta officials to defund its police and "de-criminalize" many offenses, even in the wake of accelerating levels of violent crime. A vote to cut $72 Million from its police budget failed by one vote in Atlanta's City Council in 2021.

Buckhead's secession might well restore confidence that their municipal elections were conducted honestly, so residents would no longer need to worry about phony plumbing leaks that can halt the vote tabulating process for hours. This is what happened in November of 2020 in Atlanta's centralized vote tabulating center -- the State Farm Arena -- creating an opportunity for enormous electoral mischief to take place.

The tragedy of our largest cities -- once considered the "gems" of our civilization -- is that once blacks gain control of the levers of power, the fates of those cities are forever sealed. Nothing lies ahead but increasing rates of violent crime, higher taxes, a lower quality of life, a decline in city services, nepotism, embezzlement, and voter fraud that perpetuates control by a corrupt and tribal black political machine.

Buckhead is demonstrating a path away from this decline, and will be "voting with their feet" in November.
