

Lip Service & Empty Rhetoric

I've observed endless marches by blacks to protest violence in their hoods and heard countless black "leaders" denounce black violent crime in front of TV cameras and microphones. However, political theater and "lip-service" won't make a dent: black violent crime has skyrocketed the past couple of years despite all the demonstrations, rhetoric and efforts at self-awareness.

It's reached a point where even family reunions, holiday celebrations, birthday parties or merely a trip to a fast-food restaurant can hardly take place without gunfights between n*ggers. A recent example involved a car show in Dumas, Arkansas hosted by the Hood--Nic Foundation on Saturday, March 19, 2022. The obligatory gun-battle erupted around 7:00 p.m. in the event's parking lot, when an exchange of gunfire took place between two n*ggers, killing one and wounding 27 others. Several children were also injured by gunfire.

Violence has become so much a part of their "ghetto" subculture, it's become second nature to many blacks and has even spread to rural areas. You could even say that by now, it's hard-wired in their brains. Their various forms of entertainment glorify it, and it's routinely condoned by many younger blacks. Until attitudes change, behavior never will.

If anyone were really serious about change, the parents of black teenage males need to start by asking hard questions of their offspring, such as why they are out at all hours of the night and why they sleep all day. Or, how they manage to own a vehicle or other costly possessions -- like gold necklaces -- without ever having a job.

It would also require those who are capable of doing so to monitor their teenage son's social media page, and not turn a blind eye to photos of their grinning sons, flashing guns and large wads of money on Facebook or other social media platform. If they can't do it themselves, they should find someone to do the search for them.

Parents of black teenagers should consider asking why other teens are frequent visitors to their home, but those visits only last for a few minutes and then their visitors hurriedly leave. They might also ask why their sons always seem to be "flush" with cash afterwards. They should no longer turn a blind eye to occasions when their teenager is obviously "high."

In the event that police come looking for any of their sons, baby-daddies or boyfriends -- in order to serve an arrest warrant -- they must start cooperating with police and stop harboring or financially supporting fugitives from justice. Black males often make "accessories" of gullible women by dragging them into their criminal activities to help obscure their crimes from law enforcement.

Parents might also start asking their wards why they constantly wear the same color when they leave the house, and so often seem to be running with obvious gang-members who also wear the same color.

Blacks need to break tradition and start cooperating with police by reporting the details of violent crimes. I'm not suggesting they endanger themselves, but they need to become more willing to provide police with details of crimes they've witnessed, especially violent crimes that seem to have no identifiable witnesses. They could do so anonymously.

Finally, when police are compelled to use deadly force against an armed, black career criminal, they should avoid participating in violent and destructive protests, because they might have become that criminal's very next victim!

Blacks talk a lot about cultural reform, but never walk the walk. There's endless talk about the need for reform, but blacks appear no more capable of doing so than they are capable of performing brain surgery. Black violence won't decline until their actions are consistent with their rhetoric.

Joe Friday
L.A., CA