

Irony and Hypocrisy

The empty-suit wrongly occupying the presidency recently attacked the U.S. Supreme Court's decision overturning Roe v. Wade. Biden accused the Supreme Court of "outrageous behavior," and claimed that the Court's actions were "destabilizing."

Essentially, Biden was questioning the integrity of the court. It's very difficult to do justice to the irony of "The Big Guy" questioning anyone's integrity, but here are some of my best attempts:

That's like Alger Hiss questioning someone's patriotism.

It's like Jeffrey Dahmer questioning someone's palate.

It's like Ted Bundy questioning someone's humanity.

It's like Bernie Madoff questioning someone's ethics.

It's like Jeffrey Epstein questioning someone's celibacy.

It's like Ted Kennedy criticizing someone's driving.

It's like Hillary Clinton accusing someone of "dirty tricks."

It's like AOC accusing someone of lacking substance.

It's like Jen Psaki questioning someone's truthfulness.

It's like Pocahontas Warren criticizing someone's identity politics.

It's like Chicago Mayor Lori Lightfoot questioning someone's leadership.

It's like Liz Cheney questioning someone's loyalty.

It's like Anthony Fauci accusing someone of self-promotion.

It's like New York Mayor Eric Adams questioning someone's intelligence.

It's like CNN questioning someone's sources.

It's like Nancy Pelosi questioning someone's integrity.

It's like NY Governor Kathy Hochul questioning someone's gravitas.
