

Anomalies or Fraud ?

by Earl P. Holt III

I've always been baffled by states with Republican state legislatures and "Democrat" Governors. There are eight states currently possessing this seeming anomaly, and it's NOT a coincidence that four -- Minnesota, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin -- are considered "swing states." It's been speculated that voters in these states consciously balance power between the two major parties by dividing state government, but a far more likely explanation is VOTER FRAUD.

It would be difficult for "Democrats" to organize vote fraud schemes in RED STATE house and senate districts to reverse Republican majorities and give "Democrats" control of their legislatures AND their governorships. For example, investigating voter fraud in counties with small populations would be simpler to audit -- and fraud much easier to expose -- because of the fewer votes cast there. In most RED counties, "Democrats" would probably have difficulty even finding election officials who would dare to engage in voter fraud.

On the other hand, it's a far simpler task to orchestrate statewide vote fraud schemes from within the LARGEST CITY in each swing state, especially those possessing large black populations. This enables "Democrats" to occasionally flip critical statewide elections -- such as those for Governor, Attorney General, Secretary of State or U.S. Senator -- by generating a sufficient number of fraudulent votes to overwhelm the legitimate votes originating outside these large cities. This accounts for the oddity of "130% turnout" that's frequently reported in places like Philadelphia.

I suspect that decades ago, so-called "Democrats" began to recognize that their inability to govern and their unrelenting drift toward international socialism alienated most decent, middle-class Americans. In the 1972 Presidential Election, Richard Nixon won every state except Massachusetts, and The Gipper won 45 states in 1980 and 49 states in the 1984 Presidential Elections. Rather than surrender a significant majority of Red states to unchallenged Republican control, "Democrats" deviously began to employ black voter fraud in their largest BLUE cities to salvage as many statewide offices and U.S. Senate seats as possible.

It was a "no-brainer" to use blacks for their voter fraud schemes because most blacks will steal anything that isn't bolted down and doesn't require much effort. Moreover, many blacks easily rationalize engaging in vote fraud by convincing themselves that they are victims of racism: thus, whatever their life's disappointments may be, all are attributable to slavery, or "white privilege," or "systemic racism" rather than to alcoholism, drugs, felony convictions, welfare-dependency, illegitimacy, or sleeping through 12 years of schooling.

Disgruntled Voter

In more than 50 years of political activism, I'm unaware of a single incidence of organized Republican voter fraud. That's in stark contrast to the massive "Democrat" voter fraud exposed in Atlanta, Detroit, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Philadelphia and Phoenix during the 2020 Presidential Election. In fact, I'm NOT aware of a single incident of Republican voter fraud committed anywhere in the U.S., even by a single individual.

Election laws and the will of the majority of voters in some swing states were subverted by "Democrat" governors in 2020. It was an outrage that frustrated both the will of each affected state's majority and the authority of their state legislatures to conduct honest elections.

That Jew-bastard and "Democrat" governor in Pennsylvania arbitrarily and capriciously subverted the state's election laws immediately prior to the 2020 Presidential Election. He created the opportunity for an estimated 275,000 fraudulent votes in a state that Biden supposedly "won" by less than 82,000 votes. The difference was massive vote fraud from mass-mailed ballots, phony same-day voter registration, illegal alien voters, fictitious registrations, and other varieties of voter fraud.

That's my theory for the seeming anomaly of Republican-controlled state legislatures and "Democrat" Governors.
