

Musical Cholos

(A "Cholo" is a young Latino having gang ties.)

In the hapless manner for which its political leaders are infamous, New York Mayor Eric Adams recently proposed that city residents welcome its swelling population of illegal immigrants into their homes. NYC has tried housing them in luxury hotels, busing them to the suburbs, busing them to Canada, and now it is calling upon its citizens to accept them into their private homes in return for a stipend from the city.

Adams -- arguably, the dumbest spook in all five boroughs of New York City -- has called upon anyone with a spare room in their house to take in illegals, for which the city will pay them ~~bribe money~~ a stipend to do so. As Adams put it so eloquently, "It is my vision to take the next step to this, go to the faith-based locales and then move to private residence." One amount kicked around for the stipend among New York City's brain-trust runs as high as $100 per night.

Dumbest in all five boroughs

Drawing from scripture, Reverend Adams declared that we have a religious obligation to shelter people in need: "As a Christian, Christian scripture reminds us, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself and welcome the stranger among us'..." Apparently, Gracie Mansion -- the NYC Mayor's residence -- is not considered a suitable habitation to house such deserving folks, even in an official "sanctuary city" like New York.

One obstacle to all this altruism lies in the fact that NYC is infamous for its so-called "eviction protections" that corrosively favor tenants over landlords. Once a tenant claims residency in NYC, they are more likely to be abducted by Martians than legally evicted. During the COVID scamdemic, the city even enacted an ordinance that prohibited landlords from evicting anyone for any reason.

That stipend of $100 per day may sound generous, but there's nothing stopping the city from ending the program without ending the tenancy of those illegals it earlier bribed people to accept into their homes. What if the illegal alien tenant trashes your house in the same manner they trashed those luxury hotel rooms they were initially given by NYC, such as the Row NYC Hotel? The new tenant may like your house and may not voluntarily leave when asked.

The dregs of the Third World, who are willing to illegally invade your nation and scoff at its immigration laws, may not cooperate with homeowners merely because they've been asked or ordered to vacate a private residence.
