

The CofCC is running out of funds. I'd appreciate it greatly if those in a position to help would do so by extending their subscriptions or making a gift to the CofCC.

We currently have $217 in our account, which isn't enough to pay our webmaster for December of 2023. I'm willing to pitch in the $83 difference to get us through Calendar 2023, but we need subscribers to renew quickly to continue our work beyond 2023.

I have enough material to publish a January of 2024 issue of the INFORMER, but don't have enough to pay our graphics editor to do the "lay-out." I intend to publish and e-mail it around mid-December of 2023, so people can enjoy it through the holidays.

I haven't abandoned the INFORMER, and I'll publish it at least four times in 2024. The last several years we've published six or seven times each Calendar Year, but that's an impossible schedule to maintain for the next year or two.

Our paltry Renewal Fee of $25 is the same amount first charged in 1985, when the U.S. dollar was worth at least THREE times what it's worth today. Moreover, it's now a vastly more professional publication.

Please be sure to send your Renewal to the correct address, which is.
