

Monkeys & Typewriters

by Earl P. Holt III

There's an old adage that if you corralled enough monkeys and enough typewriters, one of them would -- by chance alone -- eventually reproduce the works of Shakespeare. However, black academics in America's so-called "Institutions of Higher Learning" have pretty thoroughly disproved that theory forever. A good example why are their recent efforts to "redefine" many things we take for granted.

Potential Shakespeares?

There's no small element of irony in black "academics" redefining words in the English Lexicon, especially since blacks have never, themselves, invented a written language in the hundreds-of-thousands of years they've managed to walk upright. The phenomenon is made doubly ironic because they've already made a hash out of English, which they've converted into a ridiculous patois they ludicrously call "Ebonics."

According to the trouserred apes of academia, the following, seemingly benign things are indicative of racism and prejudice: Correct answers in Math; Efficiency in completing an assigned task; The white nuclear family; Meritocracies; The Protestant Ethic; Accurate record-keeping; Objectivity and the scientific method; Mathematics; Christianity; The Constitution; Owning dogs; Classical music; Patriotism; The U.S. Flag; Medicine; Medieval studies; Farmers; Markets; Surfing; Peanut butter & jelly sandwiches; And milk.

I won't bother to repeat the rationale behind these claims, because there's no point in subjecting oneself to reading the gibberish of gibbons. What their ridiculous claims really tell us is that blacks are no more capable of understanding, appreciating or assimilating into a modern, complex and technologically sophisticated civilization than ancient alchemists were able to convert lead into gold. There's a very real gap of perhaps, several hundred thousand years of evolution between us.

No one with a brain needs to be told that blacks do poorly in Math, science, or any exercise requiring objectivity. Disparities between blacks and whites in academic achievement are even more pronounced in Math than in comparisons of verbal skills. Those primitive and under-evolved Frontal Lobes just aren't up to the task, or as a wise man once remarked, "They're too soon out of the trees." Naturally, this compels these black "intellectuals" to jettison Math in favor of "Ethno-Math," where "there don't be no rong ansers."

Likewise, the great achievements of Western Civilization that include the Scientific Method, digitalization, the Constitution, Rule of Law, Medicine, the structure of DNA, and Mozart are seemingly well beyond their capacity to grasp. When the greatest achievements of your own race consist of dung huts, stone tools, head-shrinking, hunting and gathering, cannibalism, and female "clitoridectomies" -- but never the wheel or a written language -- that old devil ENVY has an irresistible impulse to rear its woolly head.

Their contempt for the Constitution, the Star-Spangled Banner, the American Flag and American patriotism are merely examples of that universally-recognized lack of gratitude found among most members of the black race. They're just too stupid to appreciate the fact that in America, they enjoy a higher standard of living than even the wealthiest of kings and monarchs of bygone eras, thanks to air-conditioning, central heat, autos, modern medicine, cell phones, and grocery stores. This is probably a Frontal Lobe phenomenon, as well.

The animosity they apparently feel toward meritocracies, the Protestant Ethic, accurate record-keeping, and the impulse to complete an assigned task efficiently are just evidence of sheer laziness. There's no point in sugar-coating it because we've all seen it.

The basis for their animus toward the white nuclear family is patently obvious. Illegitimacy is rampant among blacks in America, and few even know the identity of their fathers, so Father's Day* is a source of great confusion. Over 90% of all live, black births in our largest cities are illegitimate and about 75 percent are, nationwide. Like most under-evolved species with primitive instincts, their own subcultural cesspool compares very poorly with the white nuclear family, so they must denounce it.

What can one say about a race that feels the need to attack milk, peanut butter-and-jelly sandwiches, surfing, farmers and owning dogs as being somehow "racist"? Clearly, black academics have too little intellect and far too much time on their hands. Perhaps they should get second jobs doing domestic work or maintenance work, where their forebears actually showed some aptitude.

All joking aside, these frauds and poseurs are indoctrinating your college-age kids with Critical Race Theory and any other variety of Marxism that happens to be fashionable. You might as well burn your kid's $40,000 per-year college tuition and use it to heat your home this winter, because that money is being squandered on lies. That is, unless your kid is studying something useful like Engineering, Business or the Natural Sciences, where trousered apes are rarely found "cause dey don' be liken dat maffamatics."

“WE’VE ALL HEARD THAT A MILLION
MONKEYS BANGING ON A MILLION
TYPEWRITERS WILL EVENTUALLY REPRODUCE THE ENTIRE WORKS OF
SHAKESPEARE. NOW, THANKS TO RACE
QUOTAS, WE KNOW THIS IS NOT TRUE.”
