

Schadenfreude !

(Schadenfreude: taking delight in the misfortunes of another.)

Many among the Stepford Children of Generation Z are the most twisted, the most delusional and the least knowledgeable generation in American History, but they DO have their entertainment value. One of them is an advocate for "Defunding the Police" named Darcie Bell, who was recently forced to beg police to find the stolen U-Haul truck containing all her worldly possessions.

Clueless Narcissist, Darcie Bell

When the San Francisco Police Department didn't immediately drop everything they were doing and successfully recover all of Darcie Bell's belongings, this spoiled and clueless child ranted on social media with the vulgarity characteristic of n*gger-lovers and other communists in a "tweet" that quickly went viral. Below is the substance of her "tweet":

"I haven't found my sh*t! The cops didn't do sh*t! U-Haul made me file a f*cking police report . . . There's cameras all over this city. They haven't done sh*t! . . . I just want my stuff back!"

According to the NEW YORK POST which first reported this story, Darcie Bell's rant on X received over 800,000 viewings within only two days, and prompted several unflattering comments. Afterward, she responded to the NEW YORK POST'S story and the critical comments of readers in the following manner: "It's wild they are calling me an activist for a few tweets. But it's even better to see the tough-on-crime crowd celebrate crime."

GUILTY AS CHARGED! However, society is entitled to a little schadenfreude when the crime victim is a narcissistic and witless fool, who received a much-deserved dose of "poetic justice" for her hostility toward police. She got exactly what she deserved when her belongings were stolen, and probably by the very people for whom she is an advocate.
