

Washington Xanadu

(Apologies to Samuel Taylor Coleridge)

In Washington, have Democrats a corrupt regime constructed; where traitors, crooks and sewer-rats
in league with slimy bureaucrats, see that all reform's obstructed.

Here slithey swamp creatures do roam
at great expense but little gain;
content to call swamp-waters home,
defiling our Capitol Dome,
while leaving their enduring stain.

Quite undeterred by inflation
or a $36 Trillion debt;
welcoming Third World invasion
from illegal immigration, plus all the ills these things beget.

None are so low as those who'd steal
their society's elections;
creating wounds that never heal
betraying every ideal,
using those with dark complexions.
